Session One-Motivation:

Intrinsic & Extrinsic

Read the following resource:

<http://psychology.about.com/od/motivation/f/difference-between-extrinsic-and-intrinsic-motivation.htm>

1. Write your own definition of the meaning of extrinsic and intrinsic motivation without involving athletics.
2. In your own words write a contrast & comparison of these two types of motivation.
Again, do not involve athletes.

3. Write about a non-athletic moment and its outcome when you were intrinsically and /or extrinsically motivated.
4. Write about a non-athletic time and its outcome when you intrinsically and/or extrinsically motivated an individual or a group of people. Be sure and include how goal setting and positive reinforcement help.

Read and study this resource: <https://www.verywellmind.com/what-is-flow-2794768>

5. Explain the term “flow experience”
6. Describe a time in your life when you experienced “the flow”
7. In what ways will you organize a flow experience in your team practices
8. How important is developing “flow experiences” in being a successful coach - explain

Motivational Techniques

Resource – this is written for basketball but it pertains to any athletic endeavor -

<http://www.breakthroughbasketball.com/mental/motivate-players.html>

9. a-e from this resource list five techniques that are extremely valuable and that you need to work on. State why and how you are going to improve in these areas.
10. Select one technique from the 36 in this resource as the most important one of all – if you could only use one – it would be your poster motivating technique- state why.

Read and study this resource: <https://motivationping.com/quotes-athletes/>

- 11) Select one quote from the many given in this resource as the one you would place in the locker room. What is that quote and why did you pick that one.

11. How well do you motivate your athletes through goal setting? explain

Positive Reinforcement Resource: <https://www.warriormindcoach.com/positive-reinforcement-for-athletic-performance/>

12. You have worked hard in this class and your efforts will show as you motivate your athletics through positive reinforcement. Tell how you are going to do that.
13. You have worked hard in this class and your efforts will show as you motivate your athletics through positive reinforcement. Tell how you are going to do that.

Summing up motivation

14. A parent has approached you about their child who loves participating in the sport you are coaching but the parent does not see the long-term payoff. If the time given to the sport could be directed to another life preparation, wouldn't their child prosper later in life? You believe strongly that participating in athletics helps one develop motivational skills that will help in every aspect of life. What can you say to the parent to bring her/him around to your way of thinking?

In statement see how many aspects of this session on Motivation you can relate to the parent

Session Two - Communication

Read and study this resource

Communication Skills <http://www.brianmac.co.uk/commun.htm>

Describe (using each of the four below once) incidents in your life (they do not have to be athletic) when communications were not effective because:

1. the messenger did not get your attention
 2. you did not understand the message
 3. you did not accept the message
 4. the nonverbal message differed from the verbal one
5. To motivate your athletes, you must avoid communication blocks. How are you going to do this throughout your program?

A resource on communication styles

<http://www.clairenewton.co.za/my-articles/the-five-communication-styles.html>

6. Which style most fits your personality-why?
7. What communication blocks will you have to be aware of because of your chosen style?
8. How are you going turn this awareness into a positive motivational experience for your athletes?

Resource-Negative vs. Positive Style of Communication

<http://oureverydaylife.com/positive-negative-communication-skills-8758093.html>

9. Describe an incident when you personally were motivated by a negative communication style of coaching
10. What was the outcome?
11. What do you think the outcome would have been if you had been motivated by a positive communication style?
12. List the most destructive negative statements you have heard coming from a coach to a player or team
13. Match the statements in #12 with corresponding positive statements
14. What can you do to prepare yourself so that you use the statements in #13 and not the ones in #12?

Read and Study this Resource on active listening

<http://www.mindtools.com/CommSkill/ActiveListening.htm>

15. Show by giving examples that you understand that “active” listening is listening for the athlete’s feelings (not necessarily the words they say) and giving feedback that indicates you understand his/her concerns.
16. Give at least one example in your life when someone important to you did not “actively” listen to you. What was the outcome?
17. How are you going to prepare yourself to be a good communicator with effective listening skills?

Bringing it Together Sessions One and Two

View one (1) of the movie videos listed below. Each of these movies has a part where a coach plays a major role.

1. List and comment upon the communication techniques that the coach used to motivate the athlete(s) and especially the ones presented in Sessions One & Two of this course
2. Name a movie, play, or TV show that you have seen or a book that you have read, not about athletes, which uses the same or similar communication techniques to motivate an individual or a group of people. Explain the comparison.

Forever Strong (Rugby)

Rick Penning, the 17-year-old star player on his coach/father's rugby team, lands inside the Wasatch County Juvenile Detention Center following his second drunk driving conviction (and where his father leaves him to rot). Mistrust and dislike of the situation makes Rick anything but a model prisoner, but counselors at the center nonetheless hook him up with the Highland Rugby Team, a team renowned for its long string of successive state championships. Its coach, Larry Gelwix, has a surprisingly unexpected philosophy: train boys to be champions in life first, then on the field. Rick doesn't buy into this, which could earn him some time in State Prison if he doesn't turn his life and attitude around by the time he turns 18.

Moneyball (Baseball)

Oakland A's GM Billy Beane is handicapped with the lowest salary constraint in baseball. If he ever wants to win the World Series, Billy must find a competitive advantage. Billy is about to turn baseball on its ear when he uses statistical data to analyze and place value on the players he picks for the team.

Prefontaine or Without Limits (Track)

The film follows the life of famous 1970s runner Steve Prefontaine from his youth days in Oregon to the University of Oregon where he worked with the legendary coach Bill Bowerman, later to Olympics in Munich and his early death at 24 in a car crash.

Blind Side (Football)

Based on the true story of Leigh Anne and Sean Tuohy who take in a homeless teenage African-American, Michael "Big Mike" Oher. Michael has no idea who his father is and his mother is a drug addict. Michael has had little formal education and few skills to help him learn. Leigh Anne soon takes charge however, as is her nature, ensuring that the young man has every opportunity to succeed. When he expresses an interest in football, she goes all out to help him, including giving the coach a few ideas on how best to use Michael's skills. They not only provide him with a loving home, but hire a tutor to help him improve his grades to the point where he would qualify for an NCAA Division I athletic scholarship. Michael Oher was the first-round pick of the Baltimore Ravens in the 2009 NFL draft.

Miracle (Ice Hockey)

The inspiring story of the team that transcended its sport and united a nation with a new feeling of hope. Based on the true story of one of the greatest moments in sports history, the tale captures a time and place where differences could be settled by games and a cold war could be put on ice. In 1980, the United States Ice Hockey team's coach, Herb Brooks, took a ragtag squad of college kids up against the legendary juggernaut from the Soviet Union at the Olympic Games. Despite the long odds, Team USA carried the pride of a nation yearning from a distraction from world events. With the world watching the team rose to the occasion, prompting broadcaster Al Michaels' now famous question, to the millions viewing at home: Do you believe in miracles? Yes!

Inning by Inning : A Portrait of a Coach (baseball)

An intimate look inside the world of University of Texas baseball coach Augie Garrido, the winningest coach in NCAA Division I history in any sport. He is the winner of five National Championships (3 at Cal State Fullerton and 2 at UT) and the only coach to win National Championships in four different decades and at two different schools. The film examines this remarkable coach's career and unique approach to teaching the game with unprecedented access to his team meetings, practices, and conversations with players during games.

HOOSIERS (Basketball)

Based on the true story of a small-town Indiana team that made the state finals in 1954, this movie chronicles the attempts of a coach with a spotty past, and the town's basketball-loving drunk to lead their high school team to victory.

REPLACEMENTS (Football)

A comedy based on the 1987 professional football players' strike. Gene Hackman plays the coach of the team, Jack Warden is the owner, Brett Cullen is the All-Pro quarterback that goes on strike and Keanu Reeves is the "scab" who replaces the star QB.

Remember the TITANS (Football)

Suburban Virginia schools have been segregated for generations, in sight of the Washington Monument over the river in the nation's capital. One Black and one White high school are closed and the students sent to T.C. Williams High School under federal mandate to integrate. The year is seen through the eyes of the football team where the man hired to coach the Black school is made head coach over the highly successful white coach. Based on the actual events of 1971, the team becomes the unifying symbol for the community as the boys and the adults learn to depend on and trust each other.

Session Three - Philosophy

Read and study this resource on core-principles of coaching philosophy

<https://us.humankinetics.com/blogs/excerpt/8-core-principles-in-developing-a-coaching-philosophy>

1. State your core-principles in developing a coaching philosophy (No specific number)

Read and study these two resources on coaching philosophy

A. https://cdn1.sportngin.com/attachments/document/eea0-2093357/Sample_Coaching_Philosophy.pdf

B. <https://www.athleteassessments.com/coaching-philosophies-from-sports-coaches/>

2. Using the two (2) coaching philosophy resources and what you have written in assignment one (1) develop a complete written philosophy that reflects what you truly believe would be the best direction for you to take in helping your athletes be successful in X's & O's and beyond.

Read and study this resource <http://www.coachwooden.com>

3. You have been recognized as another John Wooden and a web site like the one above will be published online about your coaching philosophy. What will it say about your philosophy?

Class Culminating Assignment

You are applying for a director of athletics job at a very high profile school in the community. The school is located in an affluent neighborhood where the parents are expecting that their children will become local, state and national leaders someday. Write a letter to the principal of that school and tell him/her how you can help the school because of your coaching philosophy and your ability to motivate and communicate beyond X's & O's and that the student athletes will also be introduced to similar skills that will help them succeed in the game of life.

Instructions for coursework submission:
